From old habits to integration -the hidden creativity

This workshop is for you, leader and/or facilitator who work to invite the potential in groups. In the integration between different knowledge and interest areas there is an inherent creative process that we will use and create more awareness about. In the space in between, we become aware of values that are not normally perceived.

Just as we, you are curious about how you can take the next step to create conditions for innovation and creative solutions between people.

You want to feel that the energy in the group remains throughout the process so that your ideas are accomplished.

You have noticed that we sometimes talk and talk in meetings, ending up with answers we already know?

Some questions you might wonder about:

What is there, beyond words, that can vitalize the meeting and create learning on deeper levels, and how do I reach there?

How can I integrate what gives me energy in everyday life into my work?

Which of my personal practices can I integrate in order to increase learning in groups?

You are welcome to Öland, a magical island on the southeast coast of Sweden. Our intention is that curious people will join our explorative "expedition" and we will do our best to choose the means for communication and material to facilitate your needs.

We will introduce some of our practices, methods and tools, and we invite you to integrate yours.

Every morning you will experience Chrystal Singing Bowls which gets you into deeper brainwaves, as preparation for moving into the day. This is a way to create efficiency on a new level and reach latent consciousness.

We will also use different creative materials in order to let go of old patterns, giving us freedom to see and act beyond our usual selves.

In order to create space for cocreation and exploring together, the experience is framed with methods and tools from The Genuine Contact™ Program

How can different worlds meet and old patterns dissolve?
